

LITTLE FOOTPRINT BIG FOREST FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Who is running the competition?

This competition is being hosted by King County Parks and the King County GreenTools Program.

What does the winner of the competition receive?

The winner will receive a $4,500 reward.

How will the winning entrant be selected?

King County is convening a panel of judges that will review all entries and make the final winning selection. The panel will be comprised of King County staff members, plus representatives from the public at large, and the local green building and architecture communities.

What is the timeline for building the winning design?

The competition begins on June 1 and closes August 22. The winner will be announced at the Built Green Conference on September 14. Construction is scheduled to begin in early 2012, and site installation is expected to occur in summer 2012.

What happens to the design I submit?

All submitted designs are owned by King County. If designers are interested in using the designs for another purpose please email sujata.goel@kingcounty.gov. All submitted designs may be displayed in person or on the competition or partners website and social media sites. The winning design may be altered structural, maintenance or other issues.

Where will the winning design be installed?

King County Parks has identified multiple sites for potential installation of the winning design and will finalize the site once the winning design has been chosen.
